DR. MCCOOK DELIVERS ADDRESS BEFORE G. A. R. MEETING.

Speaks on Topics of the Time.

Dr. John J. McCook was one of the principal speakers at a meeting of the Robert O. Tyler Post, G. A. R., in Hartford, Wednesday, November 20. His address has been reprinted from "The Hartford Courant" in pamphlet form under the title "Warning and Encouragement". It is as follows:

"I appreciate the honor you do me in asking me to speak to you on this occasion. The close of a year in an organization like ours which draws so inexorably towards its end, is impressive, and to those who took part in one great war the termination of another still greater adds its element of dignity and solemnity. I feel the honor and still more the responsibility of speech at such a time. My words must be few. May they also be fitly chosen.

And first let me speak of the flag. Though not present at its birth we contributed efficiently towards carrying it through a serious crisis in its life. And if anything now threatens it, we may be pardoned if we claim to be heard respecting it. In one of the processions commemorating the suspension of hostilities, it is said that a red flag was carried here. There was much excitement, much informality; many and diverse emblems were displayed—could this perchance have been just one more, an accident without importance?

I fear not. The incident does not stand alone. Also in other places the same flag appeared—in Milwaukee, in Chicago, in New York. It seems to have been accepted, designed and interpreted as the banner of a political system. By implication, and in some instances by specific declaration, the political system thus symbolized stands over against our own. And not merely in contrast with our own but in definite antagonism to it. It was not exhibited as a different type of our republicanism, but as representing a different species, so different indeed that the presence of the one would exclude the other. The red flag and the red, white and blue were not fruits upon the same tree. To eat of the one you must tear up the other by the roots. One speaker in the West did not hesitate to identify the cause which the red flag symbolized with that stream of influence which emanating from Germany spread through one of our allied nations leveling and then licking up with its hot, pestilential breath, every monument of stable society, every dike and barrier against barbarism. The men who identified the fiery banner with Bolshevism seem to have forgotten, or not to have cared, that not only is Bolshevism repugnant to every aspiration of America in her past or her present, but that it is formally at war with America. And our good women are this moment making the warm garments which our soldiers must wear in order to chase it to its lair in the frozen north.

I am authentically informed that there is organized Bolshevism in Connecticut and that there are avowed Bolsheviks in Hartford. Is it this unlovely sect that carried the red flag in our triumphal procession last week? And shall we good naturedly accept the affront? Or shall we call a halt now and emphatically?

The mayor of New York has directed the police of that city to suppress the exhibition of the flag there.

ENGLISH COURSES TO BE EXPANDED.

Prof. Shepard to have Assistant.

In accordance with the notification received from the War Department, saying that professors may change the viewpoint or drop any courses at their discretion now or at the end of the term. Professor Odell Shepard announces that extensive modifications will be made in the English courses at the beginning of next term, January 1. Whereas there is now only one division in English 1 (for all S. A. T. C. men over 20) there will be four or five divisions in that course to accommodate the 18 and 19-year-old men also. English 3 will be offered at the beginning of next term. English 5 will continue throughout the year, new students being allowed to enter the course after January 1. In addition, a fourth course, English 12, may be given which, for the next term, will consist in the study of American literature voicing American ideals, and for the last term, of contemporary war literature. Professor Shepard will have an assistant in this work.

RIFLE RANGE ALMOST COMPLETED.

A fifty-foot rifle range in the basement of Alumni Hall is awaiting the finishing touches before the men in the S. A. T. C. get a chance at actual firing. The range is located in the space where the lockers formerly were, the lockers having been moved to the south side of the basement. The range will have four targets and behind them will be a steel plate set at an angle to deflect the bullets into a sand bed in the floor. Requisition has been made for sub-calibre rifles with which the men may practice.

If such exhibition is a threat to our peaceful and orderly life, no ordinance is required, nor law, to take that step. For the defense of community life is as much a natural and inalienable right as the defense of one's individual life. Or, if the mayor of Hartford or the chief magistrate of any town feels unwilling to accept the responsibility, let us hope that the press and public opinion may so earnestly express itself that the coming legislature, with the consent of the governor shall give distinct authority thereto.

The wild clique that, in infecting Russia, came near losing the war for us, has done us enough harm. We want none of it or of its standards here. Scotch the snake in its babyhood! "Obsta principiis"—stop the beginnings!

So much for warning. And now a few words for encouragement. The war is not yet over—it will be a grave mistake if we act as if it were—and some are beginning to speak with awe, if not apprehension of what will happen when the army comes home again.

Fifty-three years ago another army came home—a million of them to—

TWO MORE TRINITY MEN DIE IN THE SERVICE.

CAMP LEE MEN RETURN.

When the armistice was declared, new orders were issued as to the November quotas at Camp Lee. An opportunity was given the men to be transferred to the S. A. T. C. Unit from which they came; to return to civilian life; or to remain at Camp Lee, where they would receive a modified form of training for six months with commissions on the reserve list in view.

Of the eighteen Trinity men in the November quota, the following were transferred to the S. A. T. C. here: A. P. Bond, R. G. Bruce, F. W. Keith, L. A. Mohnkern, R. S. Casey, A. A. Matthews, W. F. Caldwell, G. R. Kingeter and A. J. Larsen.

Those who chose to receive their discharge were: J. H. McGee, H. R. Lacey, J. E. Doran, John Havens, J. W. Moran, J. D. Gunning, Stanley Maynard, E. G. Darling and C. Z. Jette.

R. C. Puels was the only man who elected to finish the six months' course.

It is expected that most of those who received their discharge will return to Trinity as regular students.

BISHOP HARDING CONDUCTS SPECIAL SERVICE ATTENDED BY PRESIDENT WILSON.

The Right Rev. Dr. Alfred Harding, D. D., '79, Bishop of Washington, conducted the special victory and thanksgiving service attended by President Wilson, Vice-President Marshall, members of the Cabinet and the Supreme Court, other government officials and the ambassadors and ministers of the allied nations on Thursday, November 14, at the Bethlehem Chapel of the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington, D. C.

SUCCUMB TO PNEUMONIA IN FRANCE.

Parker Van Amee.

Lieutenant Parker Van Amee, '07, died in France on October 2, of pneumonia. He was a member of the Machine Gun Company, 23rd Infantry, and was severely wounded while leading his company into action at St. Mihiel on September 12. It was feared at the time that he would suffer the loss of both legs, and though only meager information has been received concerning his death, it is believed that it was after the operation that pneumonia developed and caused his death.

Lieut. Van Amee was born in Middletown, N. Y., in November, 1885. He was a member of the Class of 1907 at Trinity and later attended the New York General Theological Seminary, shortly afterwards becoming Rector of Cavalry Church in Burnt Hills, N. Y. In 1916, he became Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Essex, Conn., and he was Rector of that church at the time of his death having been given a leave of absence to serve his country.

In the summer of 1917, he attended the Plattsburgh training camp, where he won his commission as lieutenant. He immediately enlisted for overseas service and a year ago this fall sailed for France. He is survived by his wife.

Arthur Houston Wright.

First Lieutenant Arthur Houston Wright, '18, died of pneumonia in General Hospital 30, Calais, France, on October 31, according to information recently received by his father from the Marine Headquarters in Washington. He was born at Warehouse Point, Conn., January 27, 1895. He attended the public schools of Newburyport, Mass., and afterwards spent two years in St. Paul's School, at Garden City, N. Y. He entered Trinity with the Class of 1918, and left in his sophomore year. He went overseas as a First Lieutenant in the Marine Reserve Flying Corps. Before leaving for France, on July 1, 1918, he married Susan March Lowell of Newburyport, Mass., a member of the Class of 1919 in Wellesley College. He leaves his parents, a wife, and a sister. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

It being so near the end of the term, no great changes in the courses will be made until January 1, when most likely, the schedule also will be completely rearranged. Arrangements will probably be made so that Trinity men who left college to get into the service may return and take up their college course where they left off.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

We owe Dr. Luther an apology for reporting him in our last issue as having said; "Neither autocracy nor democracy can dominate this world of ours." Through some error the word "democracy" was substituted for the word "anarchy", making a rather marked change in purport of the statement.

REDUCTION IN MILITARY WORK.

In accordance with instructions received from the War Department, there will be a reduction in the total amount of military instruction, and greater emphasis will be placed upon physical training in S. A. T. C. units. Hereafter, nine hours per week will be devoted to military training, six hours of which will be drill, two hours for inspection and other ceremonies, and one hour for theoretical military instruction. The six hours of drill will be divided into three periods of two hours each, and one-half of this time will be devoted to physical exercise in the form of military athletics (calisthenics and games) and bayonet practice. The other half of this time will be devoted to close order drill and musketry. The full rearrangement of the academic schedule will probably not be completed until January 1, but the reduction in the number of hours of drill will take place at once.

CONTEMPORARY HISTORY SUBSTITUTED FOR MILITARY LAW.

Dr. Humphrey Gives Course.

In line with the policy of American colleges, now that the war is drawing to a close, to restore their curricula to a normal peace basis as rapidly as possible, Dr. Edward F. Humphrey, Northam Professor of History and Political Science, has started a course on the Events of the Great War, which will take the place of the course in Military Law and Practices which was required of all S. A. T. C. men over 20. By doing this, Trinity is inaugurating probably earlier than any other college a course that is bound to be included in every college curriculum next year. The course was started Wednesday with a lecture upon the extent of preparation for the war made by the different countries engaged. The course will include the causes of the war and the military campaigns and events. The course is so up-to-date that, from its very nature, no suitable text-book for it could be found. The students will make up for this by outside reading, for which they will be given due credit. This course is indicative of a general broadening of courses at Trinity to meet after-the-war conditions.

SINGING DIRECTOR VISITS TRINITY.

Men to have Half Hour of Singing Every Week.

Thursday a "sing" was held during the first half-hour of the drill period in Alumni Hall under the direction of Mr. Archer of Providence, R. I. He gave an interesting resume in a more or less humorous vein of his experiences as army song leader at Camp Custer from October, 1917, to July, 1918, when he went to Camp Devens, where he has been stationed since. He has charge of the singing in all the S. A. T. C. units in New England. He explained why singing was beneficial and how he overcame the prejudices which most men have concerning singing in public.

He pointed out the immense need of something to sustain people this year when they will be without the excitement of the reports of the active fighting. He said, "This war is not over yet and it is easily within the realms of possibility that you men will go overseas. There is no telling what will happen in Europe."

He then listened while Lieutenant Buck led the men in singing the Trinity marching song, and then himself led them in singing "Good Morning, Mr. Zip-Zip-Zip." He also taught them the "Soup Song", which has recently become a favorite in the army. He told the men that they would have half an hour a week of singing under the direction of Lieutenant Buck.

Colonel Cowles seized the opportunity to caution the men against any let-up in their military or academic work, just because the armistice has been signed. He also impressed upon them the fact that while they were in the army they must submit to discipline and told them that during the time he had been in the army, nearly fifty years, he had had many unpleasant duties, but he had always done them just as if he liked them. He advised the men to adopt this as their course of action. President Luther assured the Colonel that it was not Trinity's habit to quit before the finish.

ORCHESTRA.

An orchestra has been organized among the students and by its music has furnished a very pleasant addition to most of the college meetings which have been held this year. The members are: S. J. Allinson, violin and leader; J. M. Goffin, violin; H. H. Dubin, piano; F. S. King, drums; W. H. Tait, cornet; F. H. Morris, mandolin; A. G. King, banjo; E. L. Levoy, banjerine; A. O'Neil, sub-pianist.

$1,796.75 RAISED FOR U. W. W.

In the U. W. W. Campaign, $1,796.75 were raised at Trinity. This amount was distributed as follows:

17 members of the faculty (including one former member)$712.00
125 students, and the officers of the S. A. T. C.,.....1051.00
15 employees,.....33.75

The average gifts were as follows:
Average faculty gift.....$41.88
Average student gift,..... 8.41
Average employee gift,..... 2.25

The contributions to the three teams were:

Company A$512.50
Company B 462.50
Non-S. A. T. C.,..... 821.75

The quota set for Trinity was $2500. We could certainly have gone "over the top" if the eighty or more S. A. T. C. men who did not give had given in the same proportion as those who did.

JEWETT COLE, '02.

Jewett Cole, a graduate in the Class of 1902, died at Chicago, Ill., October 4, 1918.

He was born at Chester, Ill., June 13, 1879, the son of Henry Clay and Blanche Owen (Dolbee) Cole.

Mr. Cole entered Trinity College from the St. Albans School, Knoxville, Ill., in the fall of 1898 and graduated with the degree of B. S. in 1902.

After graduation, he entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and remained in their employ until September, 1917, at which time he was foreman in the office of the General Superintendent of Motive Power. In September, 1917, he resigned and became connected with other business interests.

While an undergraduate, he took an active part in college affairs and was Business Manager of the 1902 "Ivy" and Presenter at his Class Day exercises. He was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity and of the (Sigma) I. K. A. of Delta Phi fraternity.

On December 16, 1908, he married Miss Julia Blankinship Greene at Petersburg, Ill. Besides his wife, he leaves three children, and a brother, Saxon Cole, who was also a graduate in the Class of 1902.

LEROY AUSTIN LADD, '08.

Leroy Austin Ladd, '08, secretary to Governor George P. Hunt of Arizona, died November 16, 1918, at Phoenix, Arizona. He had started on what promised to be an illustrious career. He was graduated from the Hartford High School in 1903, and from Trinity in 1908. For some time after his graduation from Trinity, he was engaged in newspaper work in Hartford, after which he went to Arizona. In 1914 he was appointed secretary to Governor Hunt and was recently made chairman of the committee on state institutions of Arizona. He had studied law and was soon to have been admitted to the Arizona bar. He was born October 26, 1884. He leaves his wife, his father, and a brother. He was a member of the (Sigma) I. K. A. Chapter of Delta Phi.

gether. And a million and a half more, pretty nearly, had been coming home at various intervals during the previous two or three years. This troop of men, who from periods ranging from three months to three years had been separated from civilian life and devoted to warlike thoughts and ways, was poured out into a population of about twenty million. The proportion of the military to the civil was not far from one in eight; and yet within a few days one hardly noticed that anything had happened. The uniforms passed in and out along the streets—and then were gone. The thing that longest survived was the old blue overcoat. Under various transformations this could be identified for several years, now in one use now in another. But the soldier garb was gone, for the simple reason that the soldier had suddenly ceased to be a soldier, and gladly so, and thoroughly so, the very day of his muster out. After a while and quite as an after thought the "soldier vote" came to figure more or less conspicuously. But it was never really formidable except on paper.

The fact is those young men had been all the time thinking of home and wanting to get home. Many letters and newspapers had been exchanged, many parcels of good home things had reached the front and fervent thanks therefor had gone back to the old house or the old town. They had all the time been citizen soldiers. And constantly the stress had been on the citizen rather than on the soldier.

And let us see how it is now. We have at the very most five millions of soldiers to come home. They will be poured into a population of one hundred millions. The proportion will be one in twenty, as against one in eight at the close of the Civil War. If you and I dropped out of sight entirely inside of a fortnight, fifty-three years ago, our sons and grandsons and nephews and neighbors' boys ought to drop out in less than half the time. And this is exactly what I for one expect.

Wherefore let the well meaning people, who began about six months ago to predict all kinds of economical and social happenings when the "great army" should be back again, cheer up! These young men went forth, God be praised, with just the same unselfish desire to do their duty that you and I felt, when we, as boys left home. And just as little will they demand that everything be upset and then set up again to suit their convenience, as we demanded it when we came back. There will be some of them, of course, for there are about so many of them in every ten thousand, who will have grievances that they want to air and remedies ranging all the way from "alleviation" to "complete cure" which they will desire to put upon the market. But for the most part they will be so totally glad to be in the old home again and so completely absorbed, after the first few days of intense, passionate emotion have passed, in finding their job and settling down into it, that they will have little time or disposition to set the world upside down socially or economically. Such, at least, is my opinion. And I appeal to you whether I am not about right.

Fact is, my friends, there was a good deal of patriotism in one form or another, in your make-up; and there is in theirs. We had seen a number of tight places where we followed, not the red, for it had then, thank God, not yet been heard of, but the red, white and blue with the devotion of young, unspoiled natures. And that devotion has stayed with us night and day through all these years. It carried us through the Spanish War though we may not have cared much for the cause then. It has carried us through this great nightmare which has just been dissolving into such a splendid waking dream. It will go with us to where the little flag planted by pious hands will speak to us at the setting of each sun and hope to us at its rising.

Such a store of patriotic devotion these young men will bring back with them from overseas and it will be to them what it has been to us. We could ask no more, we should expect no less."

Look at the lines of this one. They flow, a delight to the eye, from the rich brown of the genuine French Briar bowl, through the sterling sheen of the ring, to the jet black lustre of the vulcanite b.t.

HORSFALL'S

You Can't See a Play from the Program.

The program will give you the names of the villain and the hero and the girl they both pursue; the location of the first scene, where the Earl was shot; the second scene, where the villain was half shot, and the third scene, where a happy ending is the upshot of all the shooting.

But you can't see the play from the program—nor the Horsfall made suit and overcoat selections from an advertisement.

You simply have to come in if you want to see the fine points of the Horsfall show.
